2. Experiences with Climate Change
3. Ideas to Increase Climate Resilience
4. Continued Engagement
5. Wrap Up

Introduction

KEY CONCEPTS

Climate Adaptation

How do we adjust the way we live, how we take care of people in our community, and how our infrastructure functions to avoid negative impacts of climate change in the long term?

Examples of how cities can adapt to climate change:

- Planting more trees to cool communities in the city that get hotter than others
- Moving important infrastructure away from places that will be under water because of sea level rise

Are there any other examples of climate change adaptation that you've heard of or are interested in?

WHAT IS THE CLIMATE ADAPTATION AND RESILIENCE PLAN (CARP?)

The City of San José CARP is a plan that will identify the foundational measures, policies, and procedures needed to eliminate or reduce the exposure of the San José community to climate-related threats.

The CARP is complementary to the City's existing climate action plan, Climate Smart San José, which is focused on reducing greenhouse gas emissions.

Some work we've done to date:

- Reviewed the related plans and policies the City already has in place
- Analyzed how and where climate hazards are likely to occur in the future, and what impacts they have on people and infrastructure

WHY ARE WE TALKING TO YOU TODAY?

Experiences with Climate Change

SCENARIO: AFTER SCHOOL DURING A HEAT WAVE (1)

Ash is feeling the effects of the sweltering heat in the classrooms, worsened by the lack of air conditioning.

With the school day behind them, Ash heads home and faces the responsibility of watching their younger sibling, Jess, for an hour until their parents return from work.

SCENARIO: AFTER SCHOOL DURING A HEAT WAVE (2)

Jess is outside in the yard, kicking the soccer ball around before settling down to start their homework.

Suddenly, they begin to feel dizzy and struggle to catch their breath—clear signs of heat illness.

SCENARIO: AFTER SCHOOL DURING A HEAT WAVE (3)

Have you ever experienced negative impacts to your health, your home, or your day-to-day life in a situation like Ash and Jess?

If you have...

- a. What actions did you take to keep yourself, your family, and your friends safe?
- b. What is a place you'd feel comfortable going during an emergency?
- c. Who can turn to when you need information or resources?

Ideas to Increase Climate Resilience

SCENARIO 2: STORMY FRIDAY ⁽¹⁾

When Erin checks the weather forecast, she sees a severe storm with potential flooding is expected on Friday.

She's disappointed knowing she'll have to cancel her dog walking session for Mrs. Vo, the elderly neighbor who lives alone with her dog two doors down.

SCENARIO 2: STORMY FRIDAY (2)

Erin decides to use the extra time to ensure Mrs. Vo is prepared in case the power goes out during the storm.

She brings over supplies, like a camping lantern with fresh batteries, and shares her mom's phone number so Mrs. Vo can call for help if needed.

Erin feels grateful for the chance to help out her neighbor.

*Call if you need anything!
(699) XXX-XXX 😊*

SCENARIO 2: STORMY FRIDAY (3)

What are some actions you and other young adults can do to support others during climate hazard events, like how Erin helped Mrs. Vo?

SCENARIO 2: STORMY FRIDAY (4)

What are your ideas for programs, services, or other ways the City (or other groups) can help people cope with flooding, storms, heat waves, wildfires, and other climate hazards?
